Objectives of the social security reform

- a clearer and more functional system for people
- secure social justice and ensure income security for people who are facing social risks
- support for employment, entrepreneurship, self-employment, social participation and lifelong learning
- balance between individual rights and obligations
- raise awareness and knowledge of social security and generate public debate on the values and principles of social security

A committee will prepare the social security reform by working openly and by taking a new approach

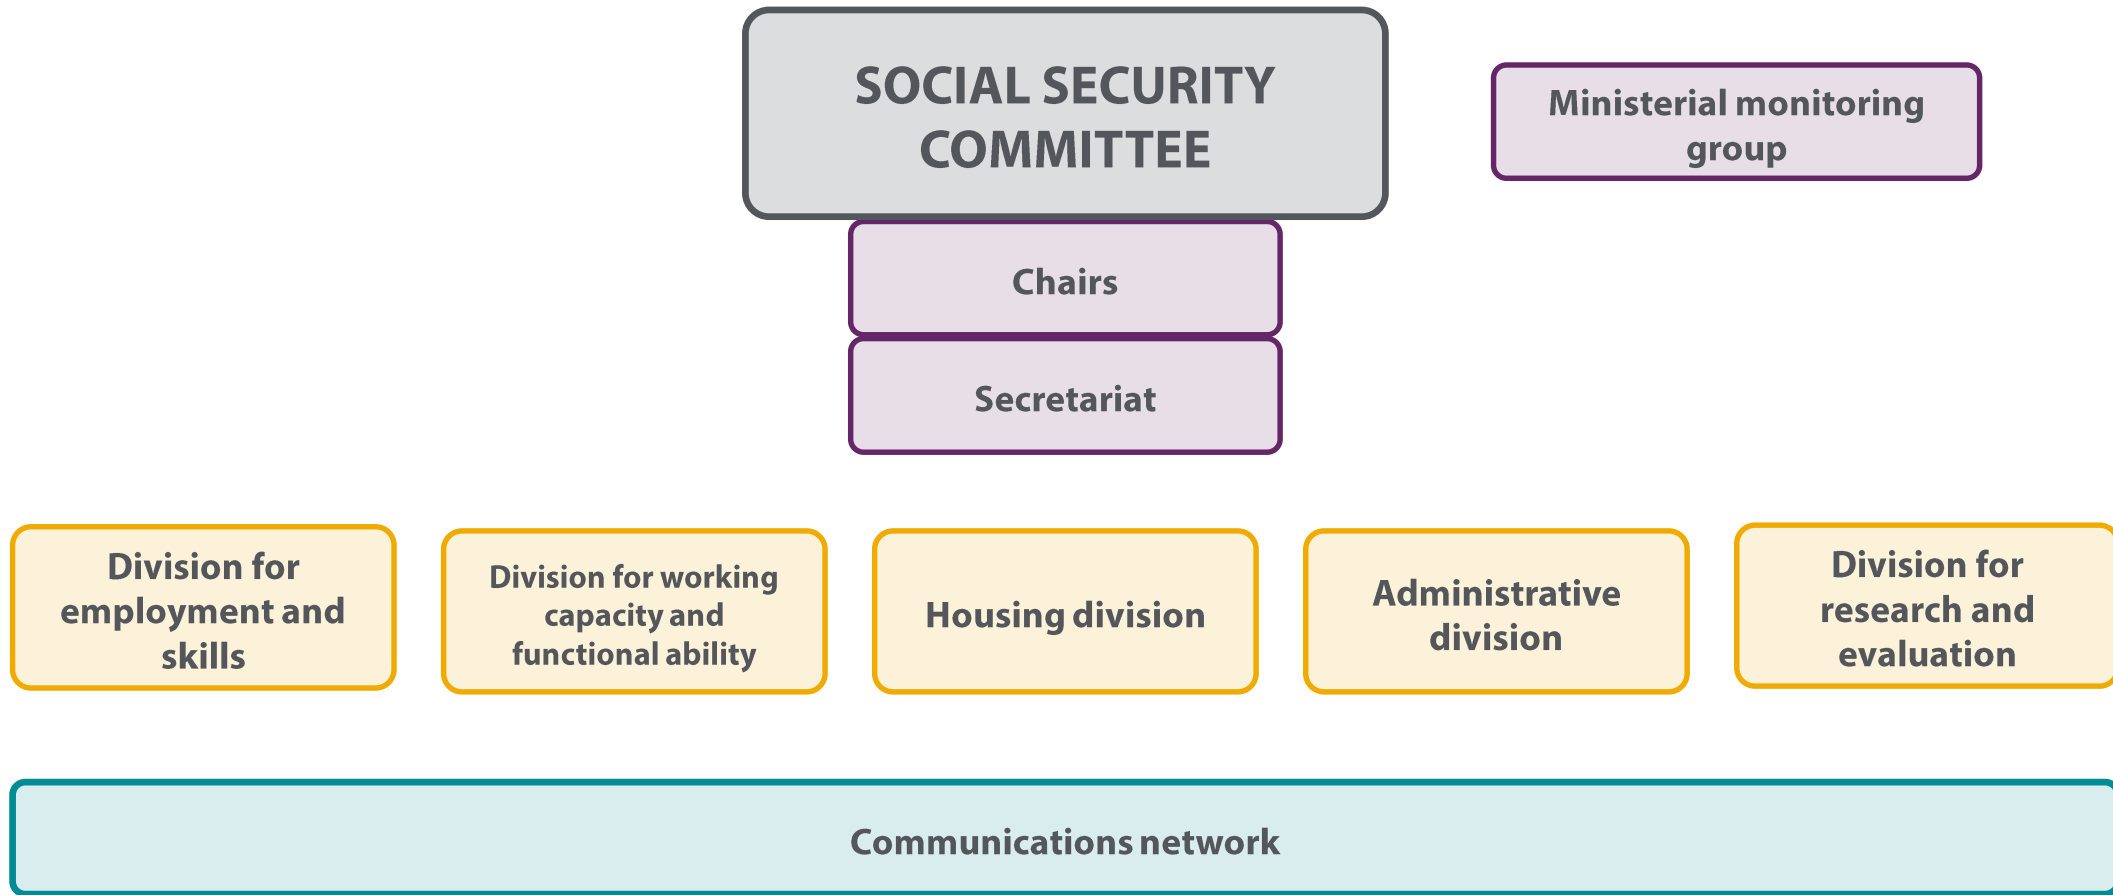

- The committee's first task will be to find sufficient consensus among the parliamentary parties on the current state of social security, the problems to be solved and the future.
 - On that basis, a roadmap will be drawn up for the social security reform.
- During their research-based work, the committee will seek solutions by familiarising themselves with the facts, highlighting different perspectives and discussing conflicts in a constructive manner.
- The principles are openness and raising the topics of the reform to generate public debate.
- The committee's work aims to achieve a long-term perspective in reforming the structure and operation of social security. The term of office of the committee will last for two parliamentary terms.
- The committee will address questions related to basic social security, earnings-based benefits and social assistance. Additionally, the committee will examine the financing and connections between these forms of support. Attention will also be given to ways to better integrate services with benefits.
